

Living Harmoniously with our Furry Friends

The beavers are certainly busy in the west end of Fish Creek! They've been happily felling trees, building dams and flooding pathways, greatly impacting the visitor experience in some areas.

Thanks to a recent grant and the support of volunteers and partners, we are working to achieve a harmonious balance with our resident beavers by installing simple technology that will allow them to pond enough water for winter survival and help prevent flooding of nearby pathways. We will offer a variety of interactive opportunities for the public to learn more about the good that beavers bring to the park and to see these technologies in action.

We hope this project will cultivate a greater understanding of the important role beavers play in the Fish Creek Valley and in the ecosystem in general. Stay tuned to our website and newsletter to learn more!
